...how CNEXT [GENERATE] provides invaluable CEO coaching, peer networking, and frameworks to help top leaders solve their leadership and business challenges.

- "I enjoyed the safe environment to ask questions. The opportunity for self-reflection on do you have what it takes to be a CEO? Are you willing to commit what it takes to be that? It was useful to hone my view and change how I operate."
- "In other offerings, like conferences and webinars, it is much easier to tune out. Here you can get your question asked and answered. The combination of small and large is great."
- "I've enjoyed the opportunities to chat to people outside of the forums. Incredibly fruitful discussions and good relationship building."
- "I've made contact with two people from my group. With one, we have started a project on digital transformation and our two CEOs are now working together on that."
- "It's a fabulous experience. Very worthwhile investment. The caliber of speakers, relevance of topic, format of the discussion are really helpful. I really enjoy the breakouts. I've found it to be a very enriching experience."

"It's a great program! And so my takeaway was that our organization would benefit from having someone constantly engaged in the [program] because the whole company benefits. It's not just my development, it's how [I can] engage others in the learnings and bring that into setting strategy for the organization"--Paul Smith, COO of a Fortune 50 Company
